Continuation Sheet (PTO-303)

Continuation of 2. NOTE: The amendment presents claims with a scope not hereto presented. Furthermore, the examiner respectively disagrees with the argument that the contents can not be dumped with the wheelbarrow of Miyazaki et al. while braked. If a wheel is to be considered braked it must not move relative to the frame. Therefore, the instant application would suffer the same alleged disadvantage as the prior art. However, even if the wheel is stopped relative to the frame, the load may be dumped because the wheel is not fixed to the ground. The wheel will act as a pivot point for the frame to rotate relative to the ground...
